QUIET AT HOMESTEAD

Without Formal Proclamation the Town Under Martial Law.

WILL NOT OPERATE UNDER ARMED MEN

More of Carnegie's Men Go on Strike—
Sudden Activity of the Troops—
Gov. Patton Goes to Inspect the Troops.Martial Law and Good Order Prevail at Homestead—Will Surrender
Their Arms.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 14.—Compared with its condition for a week past, Homestead today is in a state of stagnation. A great order has been maintained, and none of the disturbing incidents of yesterday were repeated. Maj. Gen. Snowden took practical control of the town in the morning by issuing an order directing that no person should be armed, and that no person should be in authority for interference with strangers. His decision in this regard was based on the unprecedented acts of the special policemen yesterday.

While martial law was not declared, the town is practically under its provisions. The streets are patrolled by squads of armed militiamen, and the state troops have succeeded the town authorities in maintaining order and dispensing justice except in case of actual transgression against the borough laws and the criminal code of the state.

Two reports circulated caused the only uneasiness felt during the day. One of these proved to be true; the other was erroneous. The rumor that 100 non-commissioned men were to be brought to town in the afternoon, caused quite a gathering around the railway station and along the tracks, but the expected "black sheep" (as they are called) did not appear. The other report—and the true one, was that Hugh O'Donnell had wired Attorney-General Hensel, at Harrisburg, asking what position should be made of such Whitechapters captured from the Pinkertons as might be recovered. This action on Mr. O'Donnell's part was very pleasing to Gen. Snowden, who anticipated some trouble in this connection. Many of the townsmen who participated in the battle with the Pinkerton men have already expressed a willingness to turn over the captured weapons to the proper authorities. This willingness is significant in showing that there is little disposition toward another conflict at arms on the part of the mill workers. They do not fear another invasion of Pinkerton men and it is almost wholly against the Pinkertons that their sanguinary instincts are directed.

The congressional investigation is believed to have been settled forever in the power of the great detective agency as an armed band, and the workers feel assured that no further attempt to use the agency's employees will be made. The Carnegie men, and after the matter has been disposed of in the house of representatives and not then, of course, if the report adopted is against the use of armed bands in the suppression of labor troubles.

This knowledge has given the workers a chance to show their real feelings concerning conflicts at arms to settle their troubles, and the fact that so many are willing to give up the weapons in their possession is looked on as evidence of their desire for peace.

The advisory committee is daily in receipt of telegrams and letters from all parts of the Union, expressing sympathy with the cause of the locked-out men. Only a few of the communications received have been the reverse of complimentary and sympathetic.

When the Pinkerton rifles are turned over to the proper authorities, it is probable that some action will be taken towards securing the explosives the workers are alleged to have in their possession. It is believed that the Pinkerton men who are here are engaged in a search for these supposed stores.

Interest in the Homestead trouble has been largely transferred to the congressional investigation at Pittsburgh and the Carnegie mills there. The Homestead people believe that the Carnegie committee will make a report against the use of the Pinkerton men at Homestead, and they are watching with intense interest any movement on the part of the mill workers in the city towards joining the strike.

Important Action of Superintendents, Bosses, Etc.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 15.—A meeting of foremen, superintendents of departments and boss mechanics of the Carnegie mill was held yesterday and action was taken which will have an important bearing on the situation. These men are not on strike and they have not until now taken any action favorable to the workers. Yesterday they resolved that they would not operate the works under an armed guard. This decision practically means that the mills will not be run with union labor and the Carnegie company must settle with its Homestead men before resuming operations.

Several members of the advisory board confirmed the report of the action by the heads of department. One prominent leader said it would be utterly impossible for work to be resumed without the co-operation of the foremen, as no men can be found to take their places, even if permission were obtained. He also said that there is little probability of any number of the latter being induced to come to Homestead. He said that not a bonafide house or hotel in town will feed one of these men, and skilled mechanics cannot be induced to live in tents or shanties inside of the mill. His conclusion is that the only alternative to the Carnegie people is a settlement with their old men.

The leaders of the strikers were very indignant this evening at the publication of an alleged interview with one of their number in a Pittsburgh afternoon paper, which stated that the Homestead men do not want the employees of Carnegie's Thirty-third and Twenty-ninth street mills at Pittsburgh to go out. Their position is just the reverse of this. They want every employee of a mill in which Carnegie is interested to quit work, and to remain out until the trouble at Homestead is settled in a way satisfactory to the Amalgamated association. It is a matter of fact that the grand lodge of the association advised all lodges in Carnegie's mills to go out, and in reply to the charge that such a course would be a breach of contract, the other mills having signed the same, they take the position that the different Carnegie mills are only branches or departments of one plant and a refusal to recognize the lodge of the association in any of the mills is an act of defiance to the whole. Such a claim is sufficient to warrant the men in going out, though their own has no grievance. They claim that the breach of contract on the part of the Carnegie people in refusing to recognize and treat with the Amalgamated association, and that they are acting on the defensive and for their self-preservation.

More of Carnegie's Men Going on Strike.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 15.—Yesterday afternoon the members of the Amalgamated association employed in Carnegie's union iron mills at Twenty-ninth and Thirty-third street carried out their threat to stop work unless a settlement was reached. The strikers, H. C. Frick, with the Homestead workmen.

Shortly after 12 o'clock, as their heats were run, the men began leaving the works in squads. By 5 o'clock the mills were practically deserted. The move was in sympathy for the locked-out men at Homestead and independent of the Amalgamated association, the strikers voluntarily forfeiting any claim upon the Carnegie treasury in the nature of strike benefits or financial assistance. The men do not fear that their places in these mills will be filled with "black sheep," and have no idea when they will be called upon to return to work. This is the busiest season of the year for these mills and builders will be especially affected by this strike.

Superintendent Dillon shook hands with many of the men as they left, and expressed regret at the course they had adopted. He could give no information as to the course the company would pursue. The strikers will be kept at work a few days longer, and the lumber wharves to build a high fence about the upper mill has been ordered and will be put up at once. Superintendent Tate, of the Keystone bridge works, says that the strike would not be affected by the strike at the other mills.

Sudden Activity of the Troops.

HOMESTEAD, Pa., July 15.—Three hundred men were discovered assembled in the rear of the Carnegie mill, on Eighth avenue, just below the strikers' headquarters, by the patrol shortly after dark last evening. There were other gatherings in out-of-the-way places. The guards and soldiers were doubled at once, and orders issued which placed the soldiers in readiness for any emergency which might arise. A picket line one mile in length was laid out between the town and the Carnegie mill. Maj. Crawford is in charge of these guards. He placed twenty pickets men across Eighth avenue, at the corner of the poor farm property, and every one who attempted to pass down the street was halted at the points of a half dozen of bayonets. Down the avenue they were permitted to pass the line, but no others were admitted. Similar lines of guards are thrown out on all sides.

Col. Green, provost marshal, was on duty at his headquarters, near the southwest corner of the mill property. The second battalion was held in reserve in their tents close by. All these preparations were made quietly, and few of the citizens of the borough knew that any extra precautions were being taken. No reason could be learned for the sudden activity of the troops further than the fact that the men were seen gathering in groups about the mill, and at several of the saloons there was some drinking and more loud talk than usual.

Gone to Inspect the Troops.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 15.—Gov. Patton, accompanied by Assistant Adj. Gen. Volkmar, of the United States army, went to Homestead yesterday to inspect the first brigade concentrated at that point, awaiting orders. The governor thought this the best opportunity to make the inspection.

Did Not Go Out as Expected.

DECATUR FALLS, July 15.—Carnegie's employees who were expected to go out on a strike yesterday afternoon as was expected. They will hold a mass meeting this afternoon, however, and take final action.

Returned to Washington.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 15.—The house committee on investigation of the Homestead strike returned to Washington last night, leaving this city at 5 o'clock.

The Soldiers Will Have a Fight.

SPRINGFIELD, Wash., July 15.—It was reported yesterday morning that the Mission massacre was greatly exaggerated, that only one man was killed and he was badly wounded. It was reported that the troops have penetrated into the mining district as far as Wallace, and that rioting is going on there. The reported possible intention of the miners is evidently to kill the soldiers who have been sent to the town. The troops from Fort Spokane left here at 11 o'clock yesterday morning for the seat of war.

Nominated for Congress.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 15.—H. Clay Snodgrass was reported as nominated for congress for the third congressional district. The convention increased five coinage.

CLAYTON'S MURDER.

Inquest Over the Body of Maj. W. S. Smith.

THE CHARACTER OF THE AWFUL CRIME

Brought Out by the Evidence, and the Prisoner Held Without Bail Under the Usual Verdict in Such Cases.

CLAYTON, Mo., July 15.—"It is where the bullet entered the shirt, gentlemen, and this is where the blood of Major Smith dyed the fabric." Coroner N. M. Oster stood over a pile of money of the United States and showed the jury the evidence of Sheriff Emil L. Dosebach's terrible crime. The circuit chamber of the Clayton courthouse was hot, crowded and filled with the money of the United States and excitement common to all little towns where something extraordinary has happened.

Sheriff Emil Dosebach, the slayer of the man whose name is on the wall of an adjoining room, was not present. His friends said something about "Dosebach won't talk," and Deputy Sheriff Garrett when questioned asserted that "it was necessary for the shooter to be at the inquest." But the defendant's attorney were there, Zach Mitchell and John R. Wardfield, and they took an abiding interest in every particle of evidence introduced.

The coroner's jury consisted of J. B. Case, A. B. Canfield, H. L. Wilson, R. C. Sperry, L. R. Blackmer and George W. Sanders, all residents of Webster Grove.

Within the rail seat Prosecuting Attorney R. Leo Mudd, his brother, Oscar J. Mudd, Attorney Gus Feldman, Dr. E. M. Nelson, who performed the post mortem, and the several officials of the courthouse.

Attorney R. E. Webster was the first witness examined. Mr. Webster is very deaf and all questions were put to him through an interpreter. He carried and produced from his pants pocket when required. Mr. Webster came into the probate courtroom just as the slayer and the slain grappled in a fatal struggle. He heard the slayer's pistol ring out. Smith then leaped to his feet to wrench the weapon from the assassin's grasp. The slayer shot and then walked out into the hall and to his own office near the door. He muttered something about "he killed Maj. Smith," and walked as though he were walking and talking in his sleep.

Probate Judge A. J. Shores, in whose office the tragedy was enacted, gave a very graphic description of the affair. As was his custom, Smith dropped into his office to read the morning papers and discuss the news of the day. They talked of the resolution introduced into the camp of some of the veterans by young Emil Dosebach to the effect that the body of Dr. Richard Bartholdt, for congress, and Maj. Smith, should be kept in the hands of the organization. Dosebach came in and took up the talk. Smith said: "You did it," meaning that he was at the bottom of the resolution. Dosebach then passed the word to Smith to spring for his throat. Dosebach buried the major from him and whipped out his revolver. At sight of the weapon poor Smith tried to get behind the desk, but the murderer shot over the barrier.

"Was Smith trying to get away, really?" asked one of the jurors.

"Yes, sir, he was."

"This little question caused a breeze in the crowd. 'Slaughter!' 'Butchery!' 'Cold blooded as they make 'em!' muttered the friends of the dead man, and the marshals demanded order or threatened to clear the court."

"Jack" Shores and Will Shores, sons of the probate judge, who were also present, Deputy Sheriff Belleville, Dr. E. W. Nelson, who performed the autopsy, and Deputy Sheriff Garrett, to whom Dosebach surrendered, were then examined, but nothing sensational was developed. Zach Mitchell and John R. Wardfield, attorneys for Dosebach, attempted several times to "run the inquest."

"Didn't you see a knife in Smith's hands?" asked Mitchell of Will Shores.

"No, I didn't."

"Well, didn't you hear someone say that he had a knife?"

"That'll do. The witness is not testifying to what he has heard in gossip," cried the coroner.

Dr. Nelson's testimony was to the effect that either of the two bullets that entered Smith's body would have caused death.

The jury returned their verdict very quickly after being given the case and brought in the usual kind in such cases, "holding" Dosebach for the killing.

It is the general opinion that Clayton and the murder that things look very dark for the sheriff. They believe the killing to be a cold-blooded affair, but generally assert that "his money" saved him from the gallows.

Smallpox in British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 15.—No new cases of smallpox were reported at New Westminster or Vancouver yesterday. Five new cases and one death are reported from Victoria. It is not thought the disease will spread now, as the death measures have been adopted at Victoria for quarantining and isolating suspected cases; and compulsory vaccination has been ordered.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

First Session.

THE REAL BATTLE YET TO BE FOUGHT.

The Italian Deficit in a Fair Way to be Reduced—Numerous Bodies from the St. Gervais Disaster Claimed—A Mordant Live-Sever.

Only a Preliminary Skirmish—How Gladstone May Outgeneral His Opponents.

LONDON, July 15.—The conservative newspapers profess to regard the general election now in progress as only a skirmish in advance of the real battle, and they appeal to every one to come forward and register for the next and decisive battle. When Mr. Gladstone presents his home rule measure, they say, will come the great electoral battle of the century. The report is current that Mr. Gladstone has conferred with the Irish leaders, and they have agreed with him that home rule should be postponed for the present in order to allow, first, of a reform of the registry and electoral laws. The plan proposed is to pass at once a law establishing the one-man-one-vote principle, and providing that all elections shall be held on the same day. This reform being carried through, then, if a home rule bill should be rejected, Mr. Gladstone would go to the country sure of success. There are various signs indicating the belief that Mr. Gladstone is considering such a plan, which would certainly outgeneral his opponents.

Mr. Gladstone was given a hearty reception at Aberdeen, and cheering crowds accompanied him to the station when he started for Braemar. In conversation on the subject of the Midlothian election, Mr. Gladstone ascribed his opponent's large vote to the powerful and incessant appeals of the clergy of the established church. He said that, notwithstanding the appeals, the result showed that a majority of the electors of Midlothian favored disestablishment. Mr. Gladstone said that the people, in whose judgment he had entire faith, would soon learn that the result of the election would result in a triumph of autonomy.

The Italian Deficit.

ROME, July 14.—The Tribune, the government organ, states that the budget of 1892-93 shows a deficit of 20,000,000 francs, exclusive of 30,000,000 francs already agreed upon as necessary for the new railways and for which a special law is required, according to the new policy of not paying for such works out of the revenue. In an interview, Signor Grimaldi, minister of the treasury, declares that there is no question of a deficit, but that the deficit has been grossly improved. His predecessor, Signor Zanussi, contrary to current belief, left everything in the department in the best possible condition, with a good reserve of 100,000,000 francs, and would, in Grimaldi's opinion, have restored the financial position of the state if he had been properly supported by his colleagues, and if there had been no projected. Signor Grimaldi expresses himself as confident that the budget of 1893-94 will indicate a vanishing deficit.

The general opinion in financial circles in Rome and Paris is not in accord with the views of Signor Grimaldi, and predictions are freely made of an early renewal of the financial troubles of Italy. The success of this railway loan, also, is much doubted.

Numerous Bodies Claimed—A Mordant Live-Sever.

PARIS, July 15.—A dispatch from St. Gervais, the scene of the recent disaster by flood and land slip, says that numerous bodies are claimed by friends of the victims. The prefect has organized a special service to facilitate the dispatch of bodies that are to be sent abroad. A large trunk has been dug in the church yard to receive the bodies of tourists, both employees and others that are mutilated beyond recognition.

One of the hair-dressers, whose presence of mind was the means of saving the lives of many persons stopping at the bath, was offered large sums of money by those he removed across the temporary bridge constructed for a place of safety, but the only reward he would accept was a suit of clothes, his own clothing having been lost in the wreck, while the suit he wore was torn to pieces in the efforts to save the lives of the guests.

A little son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bunker, at 315 West Wood street, drank a quantity of gasoline out of a can, and was seriously injured internally by the action of the fluid. Dr. W. J. Obenweh was hastily called to the relief of the boy. He may recover.

FIFTY YEARS MARRIED.

The Willis Johnson Golden Wedding Celebration.

MARRIED at the home of John Hanks in Deatur, Iowa, July 14, 1867, by Judge Joseph W. Johnson, the Willis Johnson Golden Wedding Celebration was held at the Willis Johnson home in Deatur, Iowa, Sunday, July 15, 1922.

Yesterday occurred the golden or fiftyth anniversary of the couple at their home three miles northwest of the city, and it was celebrated by a number of friends who gathered at the residence and spent the afternoon and evening with Mr. Johnson and his good wife. The dinner was served late in the afternoon.

It was a model country spread. The guests at the first table were Jonathan Good and wife, Dr. A. J. Storer and wife, Tommy Andrews and wife, D. A. Black and wife, Will Dillewood and wife, A. Martin and wife, F. L. Wood and wife, David Levy and wife, John R. Miller and wife, A. M. Stoker, Squire Peake, Simon Sides and D. W. Brennan.

A number of appropriate gifts were bestowed, including a gold watch from forty friends given to the groom; a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles to Mrs. Johnson, and Willis, Jr., gave his mother a solid gold medal with the names of all his children engraved upon it. To the couple were born ten children, seven of whom are now living; they are Mrs. Mary Stoker and Willis Johnson, Jr., of Deatur; Mrs. Lavana Cochran, of Storm Lake, Iowa; Frank Johnson, of Deatur; George Johnson, who still lives with his parents; Mrs. Jennie Miller, of Terre Haute, Ind., and W. P. Johnson, of Deatur. They were all present but Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Cochran. Mr. Johnson possesses curious old coins, one of which was the first piece of money he ever earned. Mrs. Johnson exhibited their first engagement ring and a plain wooden chest which was used as a dresser.

The couple are quite active for their age, and enjoyed the festive celebration fully as well as their children.

A fact worthy of special mention in connection with the celebration is this: Just 43 years ago Mr. Johnson played the Virginia reel on a violin for a social party at the home of William Montgomery. Last evening at the golden wedding Mr. Johnson with the same violin played the Virginia reel, and among the dancers were five married couples and seven other people who danced to the same music from the same violin played by the same violinist at the Montgomery party nearly half a century ago.

HUNDREDS OF VISITORS.

Deatur People and Strangers Attend the Presbyterian Reception.

The general reception held at the new Presbyterian church last evening after 7 o'clock, was attended by a large number of people. The church throughout was thrown open and every department was brilliantly illuminated. Many at the dedication did not have an opportunity to personally inspect the convenient arrangements and full beauty of the new church, but last night ample opportunity to do so was afforded.

During the evening the audience room, even to the pews of the church, was filled with music sent forth from the grand Roosevelt organ, which was played with great skill by Mrs. Williams of Springfield, Mr. F. Williams of Jacksonville, Mr. D. T. Harris, Miss Edna Bunn and Miss Eva Smith of Deatur, all of whom acquitted themselves in an artistic manner.

In the parlors during the evening a pineapple punch was served under the direction of Mrs. Snyder, assisted by the Misses Lizzie Matthews, Anna Cool, Margaret Roberts, Nell Schroeder, Emma Lewis, Nina Buckmaster, Gussie Bone, Anna Butler and Miss Witherspoon.

This evening the members of the Young People's Society will be received at the church by Dr. Penhallow and wife.

PULLED OUT.
The Carpenters Meet and Vote to Quit the Federation.

The Carpenters' and Joiners' Union held an important meeting last night at Painter's Hall, and by a big majority vote decided to withdraw from the American Federation of Labor. Several stirring speeches were made in the crowded hall, and the applause was vigorous in the endorsement of the remarks favoring the proposition to withdraw from the Federation, so that the union members could go ahead with work and adjust its own grievances if any should arise without being handicapped by troubles in other unions. This action means a good deal for the carpenters. It means that they can control their own business, and it means that the contractors who employ the carpenters will have no hesitation in future in employing the carpenters. Contractors have never objected to the carpenters being in the union; and many of them did not object to the Federation idea so long as the work went ahead, but when other unions on a job had a grievance, real or imaginary, which would affect all of the Federation workmen, thus stopping the job, the contractors began to kick, and the kick still exists. Union men can get work with any Deatur contractor, but the Federation man has a hard time on a job, because of contractor trouble. It is believed that the action of the carpenters last night will put new life in building in Deatur, and that considerable improvements will yet be made in '22.

IN THE SWIM.
The Social Event to Night at the Natorium.

The Deatur and Calumet club reception at the popular Natorium at Riverside Park this evening promises to be a time of great enjoyment. The invitation is extended especially to the wives and lady friends of the members of the Deatur and Calumet clubs. The Natorium will be brilliantly illuminated and every possible courtesy will be extended to the ladies.

Caught One Fish.
William H. Hines, the Irish comedian, and his wife "Evelyn Hines" at the courthouse, accompanied by Clem Brennan, made a record yesterday at Eng Island on the Sangamon. Supplied with a big basket filled with edibles and a bottle of ice, the party sought the river at 2 p. m., expecting to catch a big mess of fish. They remained there until after 9 o'clock, and came away with just one catfish, a foot long, and innumerable mosquito bites to remind them of the burning hours on the Sangamon in the hot month of July. They feel that they know but little about fishing, but the experience will prove valuable to Billy and Earle. They can use the pointers in their next comedy. The fish that could not escape will be stuffed and preserved as a trophy of the vacation season of '22.

COUNTY POLITICS.

Meeting of the Republican Central Committee at the Court House—Brief Address by Hon. B. F. Funk.

The Macon County Republican Central Committee met in the grand jury room today at 11 o'clock.

The time fixed for holding the county convention to nominate county officers was Wednesday, August 24, at 11 o'clock.

It was agreed that primary elections should be held in each township on the day previous, Tuesday, August 23, from 8 o'clock to 1 o'clock, and that the vote for the preference of Republicans of the township as to who the nominees of the convention should be held by ballot.

IN THE COUNTRY.
The places selected for holding the primary meetings in the country are as follows:

Austin, Blue Mound, town hall, Bood, Friends Creek, town hall, Argenta, Hickory, town hall, Forsyth, Harrisburg, town hall, Harrisburg, Illinois, White Hall, Warrensburg, Long Creek, Long Creek school house, Macon, town hall, Macon second district, city hall, Milan, Milan Center, Mt. Zion, Republican Tabernacle, Niantic, town hall, Niantic, Oakley, school house, Oakley, Wheatland, railroad office, Elwin, Whitmore, town hall, Oresca, Pleasant View.

After the business of the open meeting had been concluded B. F. Funk, Republican candidate for congress, was called upon to address the committee.

Mr. Funk said: "The hour is late and you will not expect a speech from me at this time, but I want to say that I endorse heartily every effort now being made to organize the Republicans of the state. I want to see the congressional district organized; I want to see Macon county organized; I want to see all that is needed to roll up an old time Republican majority in the state and in this district is organization that will get out the Republican vote. The Republicans are all right. They are enthusiastic over the fact that President Harrison has given the country one of the best administrations it ever had. The people know this and he will be triumphantly elected. It has been said that the nomination of Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson for vice-president will put into the Republican vote of Macon county, but I tell you he will not get a dozen Republican votes in that county. The Republicans there are satisfied with the Republican administration and will not trifle with their votes by voting the Democratic ticket on the foolish theory that they are voting for a Democratic nominee through courtesy or good neighborliness. I thank you for your presence, and again impress upon you the necessity of organization."

The committee then went into executive session. Among other business transacted by the committee, was the passage of a resolution requesting Hon. W. F. E. Harrison, of Chicago, to be the guest of Dr. A. J. Stoner.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE DAY.

The Big Camp Meeting—Addresses by Lem J. Smith and Others—The Contest.

The weather continues excellent for the prohibition camp meeting in progress at Oakland Park, and interest in the speaking and entertaining features increases with each meeting.

The young men's oratorical contest yesterday afternoon was quite an interesting affair. It was decided to make three prizes instead of one—dividing the $25 offered as follows: $12, $8 and $5.

Mrs. Curlock, of Kentucky, Lem J. Smith, of Colorado, were selected as two of the judges, and they selected H. H. Wise as the third. W. F. Wishart, of Monmouth, opened the contest, speaking on the "Fanciful Progress." He made a fine, practical oration and took first prize.

W. C. Monroe, of Franklin, excelled in thought and composition, but was not so strong in delivery, taking the third prize. Bert Edwards, of Westfield, called, took for his subject, "On the Advance," and proved the most pleasing orator of the contest, but only took second prize. There was lively music all day and good attendance.

AT MOUNT.
Lem J. Smith, of Colorado, occupied the platform making a strong, practical but radical prohibition speech, which pleased the prohibitionists greatly and was quite interesting to all classes.

The Reverend as usual delighted the audience, which was quite large and enthusiastic.

FRIDAY'S SESSION—EQUAL SUFFRAGE.
The attraction of the morning meeting was the five-year-old drummer boy from Oberlinfield, and his sister who plays the bass drum. Mrs. Curlock made an interesting address and was followed by Miss Sarah O. McCoy, of Bentley. At 10:30 o'clock the Equal Suffrage program opened with the discussion of the topic, "Is Woman Suffrage a success?"

Lively speeches were made by Hon. Geo. Lee, of Oberlinfield, Lem J. Smith, Miss McCoy, of Hancock county, Rev. Andrew D. Bellamy, Mrs. Curlock, Bert Edwards, Mrs. L. C. Shies of this city and Mr. C. C. Beveridge who gave an interesting account of singing to an audience of 375 men, not a woman in the lot. He said it was the penitentiary in Nebraska. Mrs. Beveridge also made a neat speech and sang a song, "Don't Let the Woman Vote."

This afternoon there will be an address by Rev. B. B. Cuts; Mrs. Effie Henderson, the Bloomington lady lawyer, will talk; a paper by Mrs. Olay, and appropriate music.

To-night it is expected that Senator Castle and others will speak.

To-morrow will be Children's Day, beginning at 9:30 with an interesting program. At 4 o'clock there will be a good social concert followed by a short program of the Deatur Loyal Legion, under the leadership of Miss Grace Ouel.

The Anti-Tobacco Club of Deatur, and the Busy Bees of Warrensburg, will also have a hand in the program.

A ROMANTIC MEETING.
Two Brothers Separated For Years Great Each Other Under Strange Circumstances.

Bloomington Paragraph.
It was accidentally discovered yesterday that Clarence Duvall, the young colored man who is at the hospital suffering from wounds received by him by being struck by a train of the Alton while he was asleep on that road, has a brother, Rev. B. B. Cuts, who for four years has been an employee of the county farm. Clarence and Archie separated in Chicago four years ago and had heard nothing of each other since. Archie came this way and arrived here without money or food. He got employment at the county and has been there since.

Two brothers at the hospital yesterday were intensely affecting. Clarence Duvall another brother, is now the "sonnet" of the St. Louis base ball club. He used to be "sonnet" of company A. Fifth regiment, I. N. G., and later was the "luck" of the Chicago base ball club and accompanied that organization upon its tour of the world with the All-Americans.

Mrs. Duvall, the mother of the Duvall boys, was killed at the passenger depot of the Alton in Springfield about four years ago. She slipped while stepping up to a train and was crushed to death.

Here's What the Plasterers Think of ROCK PLASTER.

WE THE UNDERSIGNED, contracting plasterers, after much experience and observation, take pleasure in testifying to the practical character of ROCK PLASTER, and while it will remove a not inconsiderable amount of business, namely, that of patching, we advocate its use, as it enables us to do work and guarantee the results, and enables us to carry on our trade at all seasons of the year, and modernizes that part of building enterprise which has undergone practically no improvement in the last two thousand years, placing the business of the plasterer on the same footing as that occupied by the other trades through the advent of machinery and improved methods.
